The British Riding Pony

The British Riding Pony is a pony which excels in many spheres of equestrian sport including dressage, eventing, show jumping, pony racing and more.

The NPS is the guardian of the British Riding Pony Studbook and was founded in 1893 by interested and concerned breeders who came together to promote the breeding of polo ponies and high-class riding ponies. These ponies became known as the British Riding Pony and soon became the most popular choice for children's riding ponies.

Ponies registered in the studbook are both the direct progeny of a British Riding Pony sire and dam or are cross-breeds between British Native Mountain and Moorland breeds and Arabs or Thoroughbreds.
